TMS quilters sew up girl's trip to Disney World

By ALISON ALOISIO

"It's an incredible undertaking for a school," said Kate Vickery of the Make-A-Wish Foundation. "It was creative from start to finish."

Last week, on the last day of school at Telstar Middle School, Vickery attended the unveiling of a large quilt. The quilt's creation was part of a yearlong fundraising effort that collected $5,000 to grant the wish of a child.

Vickery is the volunteer director for the Maine branch of the foundation, which grants wishes for children with life-threatening illnesses.

Because of the successful effort, said Vickery, a 9-year-old girl from Androscoggin County will get her wish — a trip to Disney World.

The quilt will be given to the little girl.

Early in the school year, students in the TMS Fine Arts Department decided to help the foundation with their second annual "ArtReach" event.

ArtReach includes a student art sale, musical performances, and a live auction of works donated by local arts professionals. Several other groups also took up the cause:

Telstar's Parent Volunteer Committee helped with a calendar raffle.

In April, the TMS Student Leadership Committee organized a talent show and another raffle, with items donated by Bethel area businesses.

Telstar High School held a Fine Arts Show similar to ArtReach.

In the spring, TMS art students began the "Make-A-Square, Make-A-Wish" Community Art Project.

SAD44 weighs all its merger options

By ALISON ALOISIO

A public presentation on the proposed consolidation of SAD44 with SADs 43 and 21 will take place June 27 at Mountain Valley High School in Rumford.

But before actually proceeding with that merger, SAD44 directors want to make sure there are no other options.

The School Board voted last week to authorize Superintendent Dave Murphy "to look into any and all avenues of consolidation" — in the words of director Sid Pew of Andover, who made the motion.

"It puts us on record that we looked at all options," he said.

A new state law requires the consolidation of school districts to create new units of at least 2,500 students (unless special exceptions are granted) each by July 1, 2008.

In some situations, the process may be extended to July 1, 2009.

Consolidation plans statewide must receive final approval by voters in the new units by no later than November 2008, and be implemented by 2009 to avoid financial penalties from the state.

Many uncertainties

SAD44 directors discussed their concerns about consolidation, including possible loss of local control, the potential for elementary-school clos-

Fill flap will cost G'wood selectman

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Greenwood Board of Selectmen is trying to determine how much to charge one of its own members for the cost of removing town fill he spread on property whose ownership both he and a neighbor claim.

The situation stems from the summer of 2005 when the town crew was ditching Hayes Hill Road in Greenwood City.

Following traditional practice in small rural towns, the road foreman contacted nearby property owners to see if any of them wanted the ditching debris dumped on their land for fill.

Such arrangements benefit not only the property owner (who gets free fill), but also the town (which is saved the cost of hauling the fill to a more distant disposal point).

It's a win-win proposition that rarely presents problems.

"I've hauled thousands of yards of fill to a lot of people all over this town, and this is the first time in 21 years we've had this problem," Road Foreman Alan Seames said Monday.

Disputed property line

In this case Selectman Wayne Hakala, who lives near the road work, agreed to take the fill, and the town crew dumped several hundred yards of it on what Haka-

Andover recycling is one step simpler

By ALISON ALOISIO

For would-be recyclers who can't quite get motivated to sort four kinds of materials at home, there's hope.

And for residents of Andover, there's already a solution.

Single-sort recycling is underway at the Andover Transfer Station. That means residents can throw all their paper, cans, glass and cardboard into one container at home, then bring it to the station.

The items are tossed into one bin there, too. When the container is full, it's hauled off to South Portland, where the items are sorted at ecomaine, a nonprofit regional center.

According to Susan Merrow, chairman of the Andover committee overseeing the change, the process should encourage more recycling and, in turn, save the town money on trash disposal.

The move is supported by selectmen.

Round Pond marina on course for approval

LOW BRIDGE—A railroad trestle between Round and South ponds limits the size of boats that are likely to use a proposed marina on Round Pond. As of last Sunday, there was 38 inches of clearance under the trestle. The space generally increases over the summer, as water levels in local ponds drop. The clearance under Johnny's Bridge, into nearby North Pond, is even less. (Photo: M. Daniels)

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Greenwood Planning Board appears poised to approve a 12-slip marina on Round Pond.

Following a second public hearing on the matter Monday, Board Vice Chairman David Brainard said, "I don't see anything in the ordinance that would preclude the project."

The comment seemed to sum up the opinions of other board members, and of Code Enforcement Officer John Gauthier.

The applicant, Gauthier said, "satisfied the requirements of the Site Plan Review Ordinance. ... There's nothing we could stand on in the ordinance that would prevent him."

BOARD DOESN'T GET THE FACTS

To the Editor:

The low altitude CONDOR MOA issue opened at the 6/18/07 BOS meeting but discussion was flawed again by confused or wrong information and quips such as "won't scare Bambi" from the board.

Erroneous numbers quoted by board members regarding flights, missions and durations showed an unacceptably low grasp of facts. A request submitted to the BOS weeks ago for help to get adequate information has been ignored.

Statements by several area citizens emphasized both the lack of available good information to discuss and the potential impact on their business by F-16 passes as low as 500 feet at speeds near the sound barrier.

Fortunately, one citizen attending had relevant insight based on a long military career, some of it involved directly with this MOA.

He made several points validating causes for public concern and he agreed to help obtain accurate information. He also provided the correct address for submitting public comments by the July 15 deadline (below). The next BOS meeting won't be until July 9.

It's regrettable but necessary to remind citizens with opposing opinions that those who want good info upon which to base opinions are at least equal in their patriotism, willingness to defend America, pride in a military career and contributions to American democracy.

To inject sneers and insults in public discussion degrades our democracy, masks or trivializes potentially important issues, and sets a damned poor example to our kids.

PUT RESTRICTIONS IN WRITING

To the Editor:

This letter is to express my concerns regarding the proposed marina on Round Pond, Greenwood.

Although I don't live in the direct vicinity of the proposed site, I feel strongly that the presence of twelve docks situated along the shoreline would be detrimental to the esthetics of this scenic area. What an eyesore it would be for travelers along Route 26 to see a line of docks along such a beautiful body of water.

I'm worried if the 12-dock proposal is permitted, that there is considerable potential for future expansion to this facility.

Even though it was stated at the last public hearing that all future expansion requests have to go before the Planning Board, I feel that restrictions should be in place before the issuance of the permit to protect the interests of both the public and the petitioner.

These restrictions should address future dock expansion, lighting, erosion, paving, toilet facilities, noise, and trash removal.

Once a change such as this is allowed, the area and the way of life surrounding it is forever changed.

LOWLIFES ARE A FACT OF LIFE

To the Editor:

A few months ago mailboxes and fields in the towns of Bethel, Andover, Newry and Upton were vandalized by very immature adults having fun at other people's expense.

The Maine State Police told my boyfriend that the only thing they can do if they catch them is to take the object away from them.

Our mailboxes here in Upton have been hit three times in the past three or four months. So OK we can't do a thing about it! And I guess that farmers can't do anything about their fields either!

In the past two months my electric fence to my horses' field has been down almost every Friday or Saturday morning. At first I thought I was having a moose problem, because they will go right through it without even knowing it is there, until the past two weekends when the middle wire was put over the top of an eight-foot pole without touching the top wire. And this June 15, I found a limb off a tree cut evenly at both ends about two to four feet in the field from the driveway. I know now that it is no moose or deer that is doing this damage.

It's one thing if these immature people want to destroy mailboxes, but to harass animals, expressly when horses which are a prey animal that would rather run away or take flight than to fight, which they will do only and I repeat only if they have to. Animals no matter how big or small should not be the target of these immature lowlifes that don't belong on the face of this planet.

So I hope by writing this letter someone will take notice at night in small towns where there is no enforcement around to protect the animals in all our lives.

COCKATIEL TALE HAS A WONDERFUL ENDING

To the Editor:

I would like to thank everyone who was involved in helping try to find my cockatiel that I lost on June 8. He was lost for three and one-half days in the cold and thunderstorms and I thought he was gone for good.

I went to The Bethel Citizen and placed an ad in Lost and Found, but to my surprise when I came back home, friends of mine, Diane and Madeline Hunt, were waiting for me. Diane had found a notice at the Bethel Food Liner advertising a missing cockatiel. I called the number, left a message, and the lady called me back that she had Sammy. I couldn't believe it! She brought him to me after she got out of work at the Bethel Inn, where he was found. It was a very wonderful ending to a sad start.

Thank you so very much for all your help Rodney and Debbie Degreene, who came down from Gorham, N.H., all three days in the pouring rain and thundershowers. Also thank you to my son, Matt Burnham and his family for coming to help. And to all my neighbors, I can never repay you for the encouragement you all gave me. And to Mrs. Hart, thank you for the care you gave him while with you.

SANFORD MAINERS MAKE THE BIGS

To the Editor:

The Sanford Mainers saw their first two players make it to the big leagues! Kevin Slowey made his debut against the Oakland A's for the Minnesota Twins and gave only one run in six innings. Andy Sonastine is scheduled to pitch for Tampa Bay on Tuesday. Both of these pitchers were on the 2007 Sanford Mainers' championship team and made their way up through the ranks very rapidly.

Stay tuned, we have a couple more on the horizon.

Board members also wondered whether a special exemption for funding the local share of costs in SAD44 would be preserved in the changeover.

Director Pat Nasta of Bethel said it was important for the district to know "how we should position ourselves to make the best of [consolidation]. We are the little guys," he said.

Pew worried about the long-term effects of consolidation on small SAD44 schools, where student population is declining.

"Five years down the road, there's a definite possibility that we could lose our schools," he said.

Another concern stems from an exemption granted SAD44 from a funding law change that was made in 2005.

The new law, had it been applied to SAD44, would have shifted much of the local funding share from Newry to other district towns.

But SAD44 and SAD6 (Standish), both of which have one small member town with a large tax base, were allowed to keep the existing local formula.

This year the SAD44 exemption translates to approximately $1.3 million in local funding borne by Newry that would otherwise be divided among the other four towns.

But, said Murphy, in a consolidation scenario it's uncertain if the exemption would carry over.

Newry director Bill Brown questioned whether the exemption should continue.

Two years ago, after it was approved by the Maine Legislature, some Newry residents said the move was unfair to their town.

Brown said last week he had been comfortable with the exemption when it was helping other SAD44 towns, but he would probably not support it for a larger school unit.

Is not joining an option? What if SAD44 declined to join a consolidated school unit?

There would be financial penalties, but some district officials wondered if the effect might not be as great as initially anticipated.

The penalties include:

1) The district would have to reduce the cost of its administration by half (SAD44 reduced its costs by nearly that much in this year's budget, Murphy said);

2) For districts receiving the minimum in state aid, that aid would be reduced by 50 percent (SAD44 does not fall into the minimum aid category);

3) The district would not receive transition adjustment funding, which is now provided by the state to districts that encounter unforeseen, catastrophic fiscal problems.

4) The district would receive less favorable consideration for school construction (no large state-funded construction projects are anticipated for SAD44).

5) The district's state aid would be capped at just under 54 percent, instead of increasing.

Director Marcel Polak said SAD44 should consult its attorney regarding the district's options and the status of the funding exemption.

The June 27 meeting at Mountain Valley, which starts at 7 p.m., will include a Powerpoint presentation by Maine Department of Education officials. It will be followed by a question-and-answer period.

Fill

la said was his property.

Hakala himself pushed the fill around the site, using the town backhoe.

But a year later the town received a call from Hakala's neighbor, Joe DiArenzo, saying the fill was actually on his mother's land, and that after a year of trying to get Hakala to remove it they were seriously considering taking both Hakala and the town to court.

For his part, Hakala continued to maintain that the fill was on his side of the property line.

Eventually, however, he agreed to pay to have a surveyor resolve the stalemate by determining exactly where the line ran.

But after examining the existing records and the physical characteristics of the land, the surveyor concluded it is no longer possible to say with certainty where the line should be.

Growing frustration

Town Manager (and Road Commissioner) Kim Sparks said that throughout the process, the DiArenzos had been patient and willing to work to resolve the matter, but their frustration was growing.

And that was certainly understandable, she said. The DiArenzo property is very nicely maintained, "and the fill is a real eyesore — full of stumps and all the other stuff that comes out of ditches," Sparks said.

Earlier this year the DiArenzos gave the town a July 1 deadline for getting the situation resolved.

The town consulted its own lawyer, and after further discussion with Hakala, he agreed to pay to have the town remove the fill.

The town crew did that Monday, removing approximately 800 yards of fill and distributing it to other willing landowners.

That evening, at a regularly scheduled selectmen's meeting Sparks said the bill for removing the fill currently stood at $2,323, plus the town's legal costs. (Hakala, who has been ill, did not attend the meeting.)

Sparks also noted that since the problem came to the town's attention, a form has been drawn up that all property owners must sign before the town will place fill on their land.

On the form, the landowner takes full responsibility for any legal problems resulting from the dumping.

The town's personnel policies have also been revised to prohibit the use of town equipment for personal purposes, by either town employees or non-employees, Sparks said.

For the quilt project, students tie-dyed several pieces of fabric, then cut them into 900 small squares.

For a $2 donation, people could sponsor a square. Donors personalized their squares with a permanent marker.

Each square was pinned on a long rope that stretched across the hallway ceiling at the school.

The last of the squares was completed May 25, putting Telstar over the $5,000 mark.

A lot of sewing

The 10x10-foot quilt was then pieced together and sewn in a week's time.

Parent volunteer Kelly Blaszcak first contacted Kathy Thrall of the Quilt Shop at the Rostay for help.

Thrall enlisted the aid of several other quilters. They brought their sewing machines and expertise to TMS for two days.

On the first day, students and the adult quilters sewed the squares into 30 rows.

"It was like an assembly line," said Thrall.

Before returning for the second day, the quilting group sewed all the rows together to form the top of the quilt.

On the second day the students and quilters tied the top to the backing.

Art teacher Melissa Prescott said she had planned that on each day three classes would work in succession on the quilt. But instead, as each class ended, many students kept working.

"They stayed," said Prescott.

Others left for a time and then returned when they had a free period.

The momentum to finish the quilt, said Thrall, "just kept growing."

After the squares were sewn, Thrall took the quilt home and added the finishing touches.

Last Thursday it was hung from the ceiling on the Telstar auditorium stage and unveiled at an assembly.

A Powerpoint presentation by Prescott displayed photos of all the projects that helped raise funds for the Make-A-Wish effort.

Vickery said the quilt will hang in the Portland office of her foundation for a time before it is presented to the little girl.

Briefly

Town Meeting passes quickly

BETHEL—It took 63 voters only 55 minutes to pass all 45 articles on the warrant for last Wednesday evening's annual Town Meeting. All the articles—including allocating $100,000 toward improvement work on the Sunday River Road, and $8,700 toward upgrading the skateboard park—passed easily, most unanimously and without discussion. The meeting was moderated by Dutch Dresser.

Exchange, Food Pantry meeting

BETHEL—There will be a meeting of those interested in the District Exchange on Thursday, June 28 at 6:30 at the Bethel Town Office. The agenda will consist of a Clothing Exchange update and a Food Pantry update, including plans for donations. The shelves are quite bare according to Dave Bean and Brooke Libby, the Food Pantry coordinators. Maryvonne Wheeler and Cathy Newell will report on recent efforts to become eligible to obtain food from the Good Shepherd Food Bank. The meeting is open to volunteers and representatives of groups that actively support the Exchange and Pantry as well as to those who are interested in becoming active.

Adult soccer starts this afternoon

BETHEL—Every Thursday Night at 5:30 pm all interested soccer players 18 years and up are invited to play on the upper field at Telstar. Matches are co-ed and all abilities are welcome. A season-covering $10 donation is being requested from all players. Funds raised will be matched by Sunday River and support the soccer programs at Telstar High School. For more information, call Alex Kaufman at 824-5243.

Shoreland ordinance revised

NEWRY—By a vote of 12-7, residents at a special Town Meeting Monday approved the adoption of revisions to the Shoreland Zoning Ordinance and map. One revision reduces the setback requirement of the upper Bear River from 250 feet to 75 feet, because above the confluence with Branch Brook, the river is technically considered a stream. Other changes included the addition of two areas to the wetlands designation and the removal of two others. On a second article, voters authorized selectmen to accept an easement that will allow improvements to the intersection of the Sunday River/Monkey Brook roads. The .16-acre easement will be purchased at a cost of $6,000.

Casino plan described to board

NEWRY—Seth Carey of CasinoNow met with selectmen Monday to describe his proposal for a casino. Carey is circulating a petition to put to referendum the question of authorizing a casino—the only one to be allowed in Maine—that would be located in Oxford County. Part of the revenue would be used to fund state programs. Carey does not have a specific location in mind for the business, he said, but is talking with representatives from each town in the county to get input on the idea. He said he envisions the casino as a four-season resort that would attract a variety of tourists and add to the recreational resources in the region. The business would be environmentally friendly, he said, with an emphasis on community and heritage similar to the philosophy of the Foxwoods casino. He said he does not yet have any partners in the venture. Carey said he is seeking endorsements for the plan from area selectmen. Selectman Jim Largess said he would need a more specific proposal before deciding whether he favored it.

Recycling

HERE'S HOW IT'S DONE

Transfer station on tonight's warrant

By ALISON ALOISIO

A special Town Meeting is scheduled in Andover tonight (Thursday) to consider several articles affecting the transfer station's operation.

Voters will be asked if they wish to spend $17,300 on a new compactor, gas-powered unit and reinforced concrete pad for recycling.

The compactor, said Susan Merrow, would increase the efficiency of single-sort recycling (see related story) by reducing the number of trips to haul the materials to South Portland.

She estimated the compactor would pay for itself in about three years, by reducing the number of hauling trips.

"The compactor will triple the tonnage per haul from what we did in 2006," she said.

Voters will also decide if they wish to spend $1,500 for a new 8x10-foot shed for the station.

Several articles deal with fees to dispose of certain items. The articles include:

To charge a fee ($15) when a household brings more than one freon-containing item per year (refrigerator, freezer, air conditioner).

To charge a fee ($5) when a household brings more than one cathode ray tube per year (TV, computer monitor, laptop computer).

To charge a fee ($2 each) when a household brings more than four tires per year (car or light truck only).

To charge a fee for the disposal of asphalt/fiberglass shingles (recommendations by volume: small pickup, van or truck — $25; standard pickup, full van or trailer — $55; one-ton truck or trailer with side walls — $75).

Selectman Laura Hutchins said she expects considerable discussion on the fee articles. Some towns do not charge for large items out of concern it will encourage dumping along-side town roads.

But, said Hutchins of illegal dumpers, "They do that anyway."

She said she hopes people will be civic-minded and do what is best to keep the town clean. "We have to look after the environment," she said.

EMA funds, bucketloader

There are two articles on the meeting warrant not related to the transfer station.

They include raising $300 for Emergency Management and authorizing selectmen to take funds from the Revaluation Account to pay for the remaining balance ($21,500) due on the Andover Highway Department's new bucketloader.

The meeting will take place at the Town Hall beginning at 6:30 p.m.

"If we simplify it, more people should do it," said selectman Jeff Rainey.

There have been three recent informational meetings on the process, he said, and he believes townspeople are well-informed about it.

The committee was established this spring, after voters at the annual Town Meeting rejected a proposal to join Northern Oxford Regional Waste, based in Mexico.

Under the arrangement, residents would have had to take their recyclables to Mexico.

The Andover committee, said Selectman Laura Hutchins, "is doing a tremendous job."

To promote the new system, members held a kick-off day Saturday at the transfer station. They handed out brochures and demonstrated how the process works.

"The response has been great," said Merrow. "Many citizens who had given up on recycling are excited to start again with the easier system. I'm stopped daily in the stores and post office with people telling me about how they are doing recycling in their homes."

Merrow said she believes Andover is the first town in Oxford County to adopt the system.

Marina

The applicant is Don Lawrence of Bryant Pond, who has a purchase-and-sale agreement on a one-acre parcel of shorefront, located just east of the town boat launch in Locke Mills village.

Lawrence has proposed putting in a line of docks that would run for approximately 90 feet along the shore, and extend roughly 16 to 20 feet out into the pond.

"How heartbreaking" The marina proposal has drawn fire from several area residents.

At the initial public hearing on the plan, they protested the marina would be noisy and would damage a fragile ecosystem.

They also argued that a marina development is contrary to the town's Comprehensive Plan, and to the very qualities which make Greenwood attractive to both residents and visitors.

But that first public hearing (held earlier this month) had not been properly advertised, so the board was forced to repeat the exercise Monday.

The complaints had not changed. In letters to the board and in comments at the hearing, residents again blasted the plan.

Bev and Richard Melville, whose Knoll Road home overlooks Round Pond, put the opponents' case eloquently.

In a letter to the board they wrote: "The proposal of twelve boat docks along this beautiful shoreline greatly threatens not only the ecology of the area, but also the scenic beauty and serenity of the entire shoreline which is viewed by all who pass by on the vastly traveled Route 26. This lovely scene speaks for our town — who we are and what we stand for. A marina would eradicate all of that. Twelve boat docks is only an introduction to the devastation that will inevitably ensue. This exploitation for personal gain will destroy what is attractive to all who live here and to so many who come here to enjoy the peaceful and fresh environment of Greenwood. Once this is destroyed, it can never be recovered. We have viewed other marinas in small towns, and we just cannot imagine our beautiful town being developed in this way."

The Melvilles concluded: "As we live right across the road from a most interesting haven for wildlife, even the thoughts of a marina next door is most frightening. Many, many passersby stop to view the turtle-lined logs in the water, the families of muskrats who diligently work every spring to build their homes at the water's edge, the several species of ducks and geese who stop off on their flights north or south, and the ospreys who make their magnificent dives from the tops of huge pines into the water for fish. Not just the water pollution, but the noise and activity of motors and people are so apt to destroy all of this for these 'wonders' of nature. How heartbreaking!"

"Nitpicking" But others at Monday's hearing thought the potential impact of the marina was being exaggerated, especially when it came to potential environmental damage.

Lawrence pointed out that the marina site was at the outlet end of the waterway made up of North, South and Round ponds, and any potential pollution would flow away from the ponds, into the Alder River, then on to Bethel and the Androscoggin.

And even Alan Hamilton, a volunteer lake monitor and an opponent of the marina plan, conceded the specter of fuel-and-oil pollution (which had been raised by some of his fellow opponents) was not scientifically supportable, especially as two-cycle engines are being phased out of watercraft.

As it happens Hamilton is a retired chemical engineer, and, he said, he has reviewed the research papers on pollution from outboard engines.

"A number of researchers have determined very accurately what the pollution that comes from outboard engines is," he said, "and — I'll be frank with you — it's very small. The amount of oil you see oxidizes. ... It's plain gone."

"It doesn't help my case here," Hamilton said, "but there's no point in fibbing about it."

Norm Millett of Greenwood City said he was neither for nor against the marina plan, but he believed opponents were "nitpicking" a guy who wants to do something with a 12-boat slip when you've got a ramp right beside it where you can put in 100 boats a day, or whatever, no limitations at all.

"You know he can't put a big boat in there," Millett said, "cause they can't get under the bridges. Why are we hassling the guy?"

Planning Board Chairman Rodney Westleigh, who conducted the meeting, apparently shared that sentiment.

"Hear, hear!" he blurted.

The Planning Board is expected to vote on the plan at its next regularly scheduled meeting, July 2.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

I was rummaging through my closet the other day and came across my treasure chest. I imagine that most homes have a treasure chest tucked away in a closet or attic or somewhere in the house.

I don't mean the kind of treasure chest of pirate stories filled with gold and precious jewels. I mean the kind containing every piece of paper we think is valuable, newspaper articles and various mementos we feel we just shouldn't throw away.

My treasure chest, as I said, is in my closet and is a great big cardboard box. This isn't something that I need to get into often and when I do I'm always amazed to find some of the items that I have saved.

For example, I cannot imagine why I have saved every car registration I have ever had. I can understand the 1969 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme; that was my first car and a great car it was too. But the 1975 Ford Maverick has no reason to occupy space among the golden oldies. It was a lousy car when I bought it and it was a lousy car when it took its last breath in the parking lot at K-Mart.

The pictures that both of my kids colored on their first day of school definitely belong in the box. They are very special to me. Both are pictures of identical apples, though each child had their own unique idea of what color an apple should be.

I also came across some old Christmas and birthday cards that I apparently thought were keepers too. I can think of no logical reason why some of these cards have been preserved as a permanent part of the family history, while I can remember other cards of greater sentimental value or prettier cards that I carelessly discarded.

It's not like these cards are exceptionally beautiful and that I can't bear to part with them. I'd throw them out now, but I cling to the hope that I'll remember why I saved them in the first place.

Then there are all those little pictures of my kids' schoolmates that they've collected over the years. When I question the kids as to the identity of these little cherubs, they have no idea who they are. In fact, they wonder why I am saving them at all. I figure that some day they will thank me for preserving these little bits of their childhood.

I have no trouble finding warranties on appliances that I no longer own ...

Other parts of their childhood that are also preserved in my treasure chest are all those certificates of recognition and various achievement awards, as well as every report card they ever got, good or bad. The kids would really like to see me throw those out.

And of course their baby books, in which I recorded every gas-induced smile, new tooth, sit-ups, spit-ups and fall-downs that took place in their first year of life. Unfortunately, the baby books are five-year diaries which I failed to keep up-to-date after the kids reached their first birthdays. I hope that history will not judge me too harshly for my negligence, but once the little buggers started walking I was too busy chasing them to keep track of every cutesy thing they did.

Inside the incomplete baby books is where I have placed those important documents like birth certificates, immunization records, special pictures, Social Security cards and anything that certifies anything in that child's life.

It boggles my mind, however, that I can get into this box and find an old car registration or a letter from a friend of 20 years ago with little effort, but a birth certificate or immunization record that I know is right there in the baby books are the items that seem to disappear.

I don't know why things like that were ever taken out in the first place. It's not like you take them out and pass them around at family reunions. Out of all the pieces of paper in the box, the only ones of legal importance are lost. I just can't believe it.

I have no trouble finding warranties on appliances that I no longer own or newspaper clippings of political columns that no longer have any significance. There is an abundance of business cards for now-defunct enterprises, several clippings of hair wrapped in plastic from whose head I don't know.

There are matchbooks and napkins from family weddings and ticket stubs from movies, plays and other performances long forgotten. There are some things that I can't even identify. But I will just continue to add items of interest and precious mementos to my treasure trove and never throw anything away. I have no doubt that when I have gone on to my great reward, my survivors will pour over these remnants of my life and wonder what on earth I could have been thinking.

And the way I see it, when I finally meet Saint Peter, I can only hope that a requirement for entry into the Pearly Gates is not my children's birth certificates or up-to-date baby books.

Michelle K. Alger, great-granddaughter of the late Shirley and Tena Chase and great niece to Mary and Frances "Bucky" Buckman, recently received a Fulbright Scholarship to research the non-violent independence movement in Lithuania. The scholarship will allow Alger to remain in Lithuania for nine months, provides a living stipend and covers costs of travel, books, and classes. Alger will study at Vytautas Magnus University in Kaunas, Lithuania.

After graduating from USM in May of 2006 with a bachelor's in geography-anthropology, Alger received a Baltic Studies Fellowship and a Lithuanian BAFSA Fellowship, which allowed her to learn Lithuanian at Indiana University. Her Fulbright research will lead to an article to be published and presented in both Lithuania and the U.S.

While at USM, Alger served on the Student Senate, and was the student representative to the Honors College Planning Commission and the Honors Faculty Council. She also was a member of the Honors Student Organization and the Geography-Anthropology Student Organization.

A 2001 graduate of Thornton Academy, Alger is the daughter of Donna Alger of North Waterboro.

Mayville News

By Donald G. Bennett

Riding back into town from a week in New Jersey, I noticed that the future Dunkin' Donuts/C.N. Brown retail building is still acquiring its new skin. It is hard to assign a name to the design; maybe it is nouveau Art Deco. Wonder how its approval snuck past Bethel's planning board? Remember how Freeport's planning board made McDonald's agree to house their first in Freeport restaurant in a traditional 19th Century style house on the main drag. It looked very good inside and out as I remember.

Dave Nivus and Barbecue Bob must have passed through the rigorous exam of the planning board's sign court because they have a new two-part sign — Good Food Store and BBQ. Bob. Bob's setup in the pine grove seems to be aging well. Fifty years ago many Bethel people stopped at Wassons' Grove on the Route 26 highway into Portland from Gray. (Yes there was a road to Portland before the Maine Turnpike.) Wassons' was famous for its hamburgers at that time. Customers remarked how good the freshly home baked buns tasted and the hamburgers carried a special aura of beefy country eaten-under-the-trees flavor. Today it would seem out of place to exclaim over a hamburger that was just meat, roll and ketchup.

Kathy had the surprise of her housekeeping life this week when a gray squirrel fell down our living room fireplace chimney. Frantic calls for help, Norm Clanton came with a rat trap but he and Kathy were unsuccessful in trapping Br'er Squirrel. After hosting the unwanted guest overnight, the squirrel's appetite for sunflower seeds lured him to the sun porch where Kathy was able to close him in; eventually the varmint scooted out to freedom through the door to the back deck. Four other grays and two red squirrels were waiting for the lucky adventurer to escape.

And speaking of Norm Clanton, you should also know that he is one of Bethel's HAM radio station operators. I caught Norm on Main Street Monday while he was getting ready to, as his wife Sylvia said, go "back to the woods." Back to the woods refers to Wilsons Mills, land of my ancestors. The Clanton's favorite spot is the Littlehale's campground near, of course, the Bennett Bridge. While camping Norm will be testing his HAM station for emergency readiness by running it on emergency power and testing reception.

My week in Flanders (part of Mount Olive Township), New Jersey was among other things quite instructive. Meeting Apryl's neighbors and their dogs kept me busy while walking Freckles. I had a chance to see more of Mount Olive. Population is 24,193 or Bethel times 10. It is one of the most densely wooded towns that I have ever seen — oaks, maples, beech trees and some evergreens. Out in a very rural looking area sits the township's municipal complex town offices, senior center, municipal court and a transfer station with recycling depot. Next to it is the town's impressive-looking library housed in a new Norman-style building. Across the road stands the town's middle school where our grandsons attend school. Only a quarter mile away from the town hall is a farm selling produce, hay, milk and firewood, plus it has a Cattle Crossing sign to warn drivers. The roadways are very narrow.

While searching for Maine's history of early electricity companies I stumbled onto a line that said that Waterville constructed the state's first central water system in 1889. Wow! Bethel's water system was built in 1890, so it must have been one of the very early public water systems in the state. Bethel's system quite likely was initiated by William Skillings who owned the steam mill complex in Skillington at the time. Well, not sure of the strength of my findings I kept looking and found that a Sebago Lake to Portland aqueduct was opened in 1870 — so much for Waterville's claim for fame.

Nice to see that Irving has dropped its gas price again to $2.99 but that was not as nice as the prices in Mount Olive, N.J., gas stations — Exxon was $2.87 and Shell was $2.83.

And for those readers living away, the former Bethel IGA and also the former Glidden's Bethel Food Liner is now the newly renamed Bethel Shop 'N Save. (Checks are still made out to Bethel Foodliner.) The Gliddens are enlarging the delivery end of the building this week.

First of all, I would like to mention the very nice letter in last week's letters to the editor. The letter was from Marjorie Doyen Awalt and she mentioned how much she enjoyed reading the local columns in the paper. It is always nice to get a good feedback on the column because it is not easy to find news each week. Marjorie, yes, my mother was Millie McLain and was a roommate to your mom in Ledgewood. She was hard of hearing, but loved to have people in the room visiting her or Elмира. I believe that they went to high school together. Her little lion, Leo, is now living in Mississippi with her grandson, Capt. Stephen McLain, whom I write about occasionally. Thank you for your kind comments and I hope you continue to enjoy the local news.

My brother, Steve McLain, had a visit this past weekend from his former neighbors. Lewis and Earlene Clough were out for a ride on their motorcycle and stopped by to visit with him and Laney, his little black dog. Laney also came to vote on June 12, but since she was not on the list, she greeted other voters when they came in.

Linda Smith and Sharon Leighton had a Yard Sale over this past weekend. We found lots of neat things and got to see a few people we have not seen for a while. Richard and Nancy Fraser along with his mother, Doris Fraser, stopped to check things out. As I was looking through the items, I heard my name and turned to see Rita Wilson and Nancy Wight.

I am sorry to say that I have not seen any new birds at the feeder this week, but there was a large flock of geese that flew over the house heading down river and honking all the way. I did have a report that someone had seen several yellow-rumped "Myrtle" warblers in the woods near their house.

There have been a few sightings of bears recently. The bear has been seen on the North Road near Fernand and Beverley Corriveau's field, Gray and Jill Bujnowski's driveway, and near Dan and Luella Cole's house (coming out of the Transfer Station road). Of course, this could be more than one bear, but it was seen coming over the Androscoggin River Bridge. There was also a sighting of a good-sized bear near Moose Pond in Shelburne, N.H., recently.

Hugh had several "Happy Father's Day" wishes this past Sunday. Our son, Chris, called from St. Cloud, Minn., and our grandson, Benjamin, from Ellsworth, called to talk with his grandfather. Tim and Michele came to the house for a cookout. William, Annie, Ajay and Sidney had a great time riding bikes while Tim and Michele did the cooking.

Gilead Historical Society
There were two Gilead students who graduated from Telstar on June 8. Both of these students received the Gilead Historical Society's Scholarship. This is the first year that the scholarship was given out. Congratulations go to Brittany Cole and Jacquelyn Coffin.

There was a final planning meeting for the Friends and Family Day held at the hall on June 16. Everything has progressed quite well and we are ready to go on June 23. The day begins at 9 a.m. with everyone gathering for the 10 a.m. parade with Bobo the Clown. Music under the tent begins at 11 with the Richard Felt Band, followed by "Dear Claudia" at 1 p.m. The Richard Felt Band is well known in this area. They play at the dances at the Legion halls, Grange halls, and have performed at local fairs. Dear Claudia is a new band from Portland with a modern-day Carole King sound. This trio is just hitting the scene with a new album just around the corner. Something for everyone!

From Noon until 1:30 p.m. there will be games for the children and the Skillet Toss. A Historical Talk with Dr. Stanley Howe from the Bethel Historical Society will begin at 2:15 p.m. Throughout the day, there will be a Yard Sale, 50/50 Raffle, Silent Auction, hamburgers and hot dogs, pies and ice cream. Ken Cole, along with Kim and Brittany, will be on hand during the day for horse and pony rides. Ken also plans on displaying a couple of his Classic Cars. See you there, rain or shine!

On Saturday, Mark and I drove over to Roxbury Pond to celebrate Father's Day with my brother, Saul, his wife, Johan, and their children, Philip from Concord, N.H., and Rebecca from Lowell. When we got to the pond, I couldn't figure out why our cousin, Claire Marx from North Windham, would also be there. It took me a while to get things out of the car and it never registered with me, even as I saw balloons and streamers (sort of wondered why we'd have balloons for Saul) that it was a birthday party for me. We had a good time together, a wonderful dinner and lots of gifts.

The male hairy woodpecker has been constantly going to and from its nest carrying seeds and insects. I thought the female had abandoned the nest, as it has been at least three weeks or more since I last saw her. On Father's Day, she was definitely there and poking her head out accepting every bit of food the male brought to her. This is a new experience for me to have this natural event unfold within view.

A FOGGY START—The Trek Across Maine Sunday River to the Sea drew 2,180 cyclists for the three-day trip from Sunday River to Owl's Head. The American Lung Association of Maine event started Friday morning in foggy conditions. Here, cyclists round the turn from the Sunday River Road on to Route 2.

Saturday night, the wind chimes I have on a post started to chime around 11 p.m. I expected to find them down on Sunday, but they were still intact. Sunday evening, around 6 p.m. they came back. This time my cat, Spookums, took after them and they took off. Now this cat of mine is certainly smaller than either baby coon. She intimidated the cats I had when she arrived, so perhaps even a fox might shy away from her.

Brad and Brenda Wight held a graduation cookout on June 10 for their son, Kevin. Attending were family and friends from Newry, Bethel, South Rumford, Rumford, Hanover, Greene and a couple other towns. Everyone had a great time reminiscing.

A family cookout was held Father's Day at the home of John and Nancy Wight for John Wight, Brad Wight, Ed Powers and Jason Berry.

I will miss seeing Darlene and Cheryl at Northeast Bank. I do wish them the very best in their retirements. You both will probably soon wonder how you ever had the time to work.

On Friday, the 8th, Karlene Bachelder's daughter, Julie Littlefield, and children, Alexis, Natalie and five-month-old son, Rorey, visited for the afternoon. This past Sunday, Karlene and Gilberte dined at the Cinnamon Stick Café.

Leslie Aron will soon be leaving the Newry Post Office where she has been the interim postmistress.

The dwarf dogwood, or bunchberry, is in bloom. Seeing it always puts me in mind of our old Canadian friend, Ralph Bice, who was a trapper and hunting and fishing guide in and around Algonquin Provincial Park in Ontario. Ralph came from a family of teachers and chose his path in the wilderness. He took great pride in knowing the Latin names of most plants and animals, the aforementioned plant being cornus canadensis, which is why it reminds me of him.

We first met Ralph when we spent our honeymoon in his camp on Rain Lake in Algonquin Park some 51 years ago. Whether he knew it or not, he was a teacher, too. Mike and I have learned much from him about fishing, wildlife, and life in general. Moreover, Ralph was a prolific writer and for many years had a weekly nature column in the Almaguin News, by which he taught a great deal to many more people.

Ralph was a skilled raconteur and told many stories of his guiding and trapping days. He loved to tell about some of his "sports," not all the brightest bulbs in the chandelier, but amusing to hear about. Ralph had five children, but I've lost track of the number of grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, all of whom he loved dearly and was extremely proud. He died in 1997 at the age of 97, still loving the ladies and still ready with a quip or story.

We'll be off to Algonquin again this summer, meeting up with Ralph's daughter and son-in-law, who have become our good friends as well. I think the cornus canadensis will be in bloom there, too.

The phoebe babies are bobbing their heads out of the nest, but are not yet quite ready to fly. Mama and Papa are still very secretive about their feeding forays. It looks as if the doves have gotten serious about incubating. For at least a week, there has been a bird on the nest outside our bathroom window. In that time I have not seen the nest empty and can only surmise that it contains eggs. Time will tell.

Jane Hosterman had a very welcome visitor over the weekend. Daughter Susie came up on Saturday.

and provided enthusiastic help with gardening chores. On Sunday after finishing up said chores, both women treated themselves to a meal at Rooster's Roadhouse. Susie headed home on Monday.

The Chapel Aid Society of the West Bethel Union Church held its annual meeting last Wednesday evening, during which officers were elected for the coming year. Regular monthly meetings are usually held on Sundays following the church service, thus making attendance more convenient.

This weekend, starting Thursday, June 21, OHMPAA (Oxford Hills Music and Performing Arts Association) will present a musical version of "Cinderella" at Paris Hill Academy. Our granddaughter, Molly Siegel, will be performing as the fairy godmother. Guess who's going to be there!

Last week I announced my quest for red suspenders for an old friend. Indeed, I found a pair at Labonville's in Rumford. Many thanks to Serena Williams and Pauline Applin, who called or wrote to offer suspenders they didn't need. Sure is nice to have thoughtful neighbors.

As I write, it is one of those rare days of June, sun shining brightly, gentle breezes wafting, and the sound of growing things all around. Do call or write and let me know your news. 836-3011; dhoeh@megalink.net.

East Bethel

by Nancy Mercer
Other bear visitations have occurred recently. Millie Jackson,

Rudi and Barbara Honkala and Bill and Tammy Hinckley have been visited and bird-feeders destroyed.

Alder River Grange had election of officers on June 8. The results were as follows: master, Jim Lowe; overseer, Peter Haines; lecturer, Ruby Meister; steward, Alvin Stevens; assistant steward, Nina Mollicone; lady assistant steward, Jane Gorman; treasurer, Stanley Howe; secretary, Nancy Mercer; gatekeeper, Inez Brown; Ceres, Yvonne Nowlin; Pomona, Dot Boyce; Flora, Lynn Mason-Courtney; three-year executive committee, George Haines.

Grangers and seniors — do not forget the Oxford County Sheriff's TRIAD at the Fryburg Fair Grounds on June 29 from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

There was a cookout at Clare Plawlock's on June 16 for the family to come and visit with Courtney and Jessica LaValley from Alaska. They have been visiting family and friends for about a month now and will be going home to Alaska soon.

Adolf and Ilene Honkala of Arlington, Va., visited Rudi and Barbara Honkala June 10 thru 12. Adolf was up for a 70th class reunion at UNH.

Clara Foster visited with Mary Bean on June 16 after attending the graduation of her niece.

The Bethel Stamp Club will meet on June 26 at 2 p.m. at the Robinson House. If you like to collect stamps, please come.

I do believe summer is here. The weather has gotten warm and the garden is up now. God Bless the Troops.

Andover

by Melinda Averill
Don't forget the special Town Meeting, tonight at the Town Hall.

The East Andover Community Club met on June 11 for their final meeting of the summer at the home of President Barbara Meisner. Thirteen members were present. They made final arrangements for the homemade bake sale, which they will be having on the common at Olde Home Day on Aug. 4. They voted to have their annual picnic in August at the Route 2 picnic area in Newry. They will be going to a restaurant in September for their annual banquet. The next regular meeting will be in October, with Vickie Cuff as hostess.

There will be a Potluck Supper and Social on Saturday, June 23, 5 p.m. at the Andover Town Hall. Bring a food to share (main dish or dessert), beverages will be provided. All proceeds from this event will be given to help Ken and Bev Merrill, who will be leaving soon to minister to orphans in a Rafiki village in Rwanda, Africa. Come and meet the Merrills and learn more about their call to Africa. For more information about the supper, call Linda Couture at 364-7968 or visit www.rafiki-foundation.org/ros/Merrill.

Happy birthday this week to Jeffrey Stetson on the 25th, Perry Morton on the 26th, and Amy Farrington on the 27th. Have a nice weekend.

Hanover

by Clem Worcester
Good News! Joan Tucker is out of the nursing home in Portland and is now staying with her daughter, Bethany at Smith's Crossing in Rumford. Hopefully she will soon return to her Hanover home.

Joan Howe is recuperating at home following surgery at Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston. She is reported to be feeling much better.

The Special Referendum Election was Tuesday, June 12. Although many towns had other issues to vote on, in Hanover the two bond issues were the only questions to decide. Both easily gained approval by the 39 residents who voted that day. Working on the election that day was Kelly Harrington, election clerk; Clem Worcester, election warden; and ballot clerks Herb Adams, Paul Ramsey and Joan Everett.

The Rumford Grange at Rumford Center is having a public supper on Saturday, June 23, at their Grange Hall. Serving from 5 to 6 p.m. there will be baked beans, casseroles, hot dogs and homemade pies; only $7 for adults and $3.50 for children. Takeouts are available.

While thinking about food, one nearby neighbor had an ordered-out dinner from Gordie Howe's Store, and it is her opinion that the steak and cheese subs are the best to be found in Maine.

Jim Ray left the Triple J at Howard Pond and returned to Texas last Friday. He plans to return in September.

Work continues on Gardner Roberts Memorial Library at 25 Ferry Road. Last week the roof and shingles were put on and work continued on the cement block foundation.

After a nearly 40-year absence from the western Maine lakes, one old fellow recently went fishing on Mooselookmeguntic Lake. He went with Butch Clark and Brian Worcester. It was an enjoyable though somewhat wet event. The fresh lake salmon dinners that followed were a bonus.

Alyce Pearce was pleased to have a gathering of all her children last Saturday. Everyone enjoyed a cookout. Attending were Marie Halacy, Bonnie and Frank Bulger, Peter Pearce, Donna and Clem Worcester, Danny and Kim Pearce and Lisa and Henry Theberge. Also there were grandchildren Brian, Sara, Tammy and Nick and great-grandchildren, Kaylynn, Hunter, Nicole and Nick. Willy and Honey also came and enjoyed scraps of food.

Can you tolerate one more Hanover bear story? It seems that not just one but several marauding bears are in town. There may even be as many bears as there are people in Hanover. The bears have been coming out during daylight hours and helping themselves to whatever they want. One bear left a calling card right in the middle of the Howard Pond Road near the Ramsey residence. It caused quite a bit of talk among the locals and some even took pictures of it. No one knew why it disappeared one day, but we have learned that a flatlander scooped it up, packaged it and sent it to his friend down south to prove that he had been to "bear country."

Greenwood City

by Wayne Hakala
We lost another great resident of Greenwood this week.

Maggie Ring was a genuine sweetheart of a friend to all. Maggie will be fondly remembered for all of her caring of so many in good weather or foul; Maggie was there to help everyone. During the Ice Storm of '98 Maggie was on the front line ready to go. She worked so many hours at the Fire Department and fixed countless meals. But most of all she always had a word of encouragement for all. She sure loved to see the state trooper come in for a meal; I remember his last name was Pelletier and he lived on Route 26 in Paris. He was just a boy from the County and knew what a boarding house reach was about. And Maggie made sure he always had plenty to eat.

Maggie was there as a Grammy to so many little ones at the Woodstock School. There will be no replacement for her because she took the mold with her. But she will be so missed by so many and not just at the school but throughout the community. She was a tireless worker for all and kept all in line and a smile on our faces. We are missing her so much and her time here has been cut way too short. There will be always a big warm spot in my heart for dear Maggie.

Saturday afternoon, Anita and I were invited to a graduation party for Albert Otis Curtis III or A.K.A. Little Guy. The party was at Grammie and Gramps with all the fixings. It wasn't just Little Guy that was celebrating. Jason Thayer was there too with another grandson of Gramp and Grammie's. And Julie Curtis' daughter was too. I didn't know the top of the hill could hold so many people. What a glorious day for a party!

Chief Jim Owens was present to present the graduates with a firefighters' best friend and their names engraved on the blade. The knives are an excellent item for all firefighters to wear proudly. More-over, both Jason and Little Guy have certainly earned the respect and admiration of all.

I'm told that the hill came alive about 3 p.m. with several smokers set up and a fire lit for the pig roast. Gramps sure guided the team along, because all was excellent and, to be sure, I had some of all. And I do believe there were people lined up for many helpings. Mmmm! Gramps was making sure you had a bottle of water to drink, as the day was rather warm and he did pass out many bottles. Wicked good!

It really was good to see so many again and to catch up with all. One comment that kept going around all day was: "If Gram was still here, we would be doing this more often." And to be sure Gram generally kept many a family outing going for one occasion or another. I really think there is a younger Gram there stirring up some future gatherings now.

And now for that question asked of me. It seems that one of the little ones gave me a Tootsie Roll Pop. Well several asked me how many licks it takes to get to the center of this morsel of sweetness.

I sat there and counted till I was plumb out of fingers, toes, eyeballs and gray hairs. But as I pondered the monumental task at hand, I discovered that no one has really come up with a solid mathematical equation to solve this earth-shattering task. It seems that no two Tootsie Roll Pops are exactly alike and each center is shaped in a way that no other shares. So in order to solve this, much engineering will have to be accomplished and when this happens, that wonderful little morsel in the center will be no longer a center of attraction. Therefore, time I finished with all this bull, the Tootsie Roll Pop was gone and I needed another. Better luck next time.

And to Albert and Marie, Little Al and Berta and all the family. Thank you for having us join you on such a wonderful day.

Time to call it a weekend and send this in. Besides, I'm tired and have a busy schedule for the week. Remember that there will be a wicked good public supper at the Masonic Lodge on Main Street in beautiful downtown Bryant Pond this Saturday at 5 p.m. Be there or be square! Smile!

Another busy week! The 21st is the first day of summer and the longest day of the year. It is the anniversary day of our marriage. We did have 51 years together.

THE MAKING OF A QUILT—With the help of area quilters, Telstar Middle School students created a 10x10-foot quilt as part of a Make-A-Wish fundraising effort to send a child to Disney World. Top, students and quilters sew the quilt squares into rows. Bottom, the finished quilt was displayed at a TMS assembly on the last day of school last week. With it are, from left, quilter Kathy Thrall, who organized volunteer quilters; TMS art teacher Melissa Prescott; and quilters Pat McCartney and Kim Harrington. Inset shows closeup of two squares. □

From Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

State Historian and director of the Maine Historic Preservation Earle G. Shettleworth, Jr. was the featured speaker at the second in the 2007 series of Bethel Historical Society's lectures on the theme "Maine Character and Characters" held on June 14 in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. His topic was "A Painter's Progress: The Life, Work, and Travels of Harrison Bird Brown of Portland, Maine." During his illustrated slide lecture, Shettleworth presented dozens of examples of Brown's work on the Maine and the New Brunswick coast, interior Maine, the White Mountains and Europe. He also included scenes by other artists similar to Brown's work to gain further perspective on the artist's work and influence.

Brown was born in Portland, 6 February 1831, one of four sons of Asa and Elvira Brown. Educated in Portland, he became a lifelong friend of fellow student James P. Baxter, Portland mayor, businessman, historian and father of Percival Baxter, of Baxter State Park fame. His father's death when he was fifteen mandated that Brown leave school to support himself and the family by becoming a sign and banner painter. Soon he began to experiment with painting portraits and landscapes. Drawing on his subject matter from local and marine scenes, Brown also traveled to Mount Desert, Grand Manan, the White Mountains and Europe in search of inspiration for his highly accomplished oil paintings. By the time of his death in 1915, his paintings were going out of fashion. They began to come back into favor after World War II and today are highly prized by collectors and museums. Shettleworth has written the biographical essay for the Portland Museum of Art's catalog on the exhibition of Bird's works currently at the museum. Long interested in Brown's work and influence, Shettleworth has done extensive newspaper research on his subject, which greatly assisted the PMA in making this exhibition possible. One of the highlights of the evening was a Brown oil landscape of the Songo River brought by a member of the audience. It was the center of attention following the lecture. Refreshments and a social hour followed the lecture.

High School Internship

Once again this year, the Bethel Historical Society will be offering a $1,000 student internship to a qualified high school student in the greater Bethel area. Because of possible transportation limitations, preference is given to students at Gould Academy and Telstar Regional High School, but other high-school-age students will also be considered.

Dedicated to collecting, preserving and interpreting local and regional history for present and future generations, the society offers a variety of educational programs for all ages. The emphasis for interns will be on the preservation and interpretation of history for the public benefit.

Historical experiences for interns may include service as a historical interpreter for the period house museum, historical walking tours, and other informational and/or educational activities. Interns will also be encouraged to assist with collection management issues by becoming familiar with inventories, finding aids, cataloging, etc. They will also have opportunities to work on exhibit research and preparation, special events and programming activities, mailings and publication projects.

Benefits for the intern are that he or she will gain valuable training and experiences in public history and receive some financial compensation during the internship.

The duration of the internship will be from July 1 to Aug. 27. Applications are available on the society's Web page at www.bethelhistorical.org and should be submitted by June 28.

OHMPAA PERFORMS FIRST-EVER YOUTH PRODUCTION, CINDERELLA'S GLASS SLIPPER

A magical kingdom of exquisite scenery and fairy-tale costumes provides the backdrop for the young performers in the musical Cinderella and the Glass Slipper atop Paris Hill at the Community Club, June 24-July 1. Created by the experienced members of the Oxford Hills Music and Performing Arts Association (OHMPAA), Cinderella is OHMPAA's first youth theatre production in its 25-year history, and the organization is giving it the same professional standards as all their other shows. Cinderella's Glass Slipper features the angelic voices of twenty-one young people, ages 10-18 plus an adorable five-year-old who appears in one brief heart-stealing scene. While some of the actors are performing in a large-scale production for the first time, most have prior acting experience, some of it even in previous OHMPAA shows. All are united in their love of singing. Show dates are June 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, and 30 at 7:00 P. M. and June 24 and July 1 at 2:00 P.M. Tickets are available at Books-N-Things on Main St. in Norway, 739-6200. Thanks to the generosity of the show's sponsors, Western Maine Health, Main Street Furniture and Maine Machine Products, the tickets are a bargain at $8.00 for adults and $6.00 for children and seniors.

Oxford Hills Public Libraries

The Oxford Hills area public libraries are offering a summer reading program for teens entering grades seven, eight and nine in the fall.

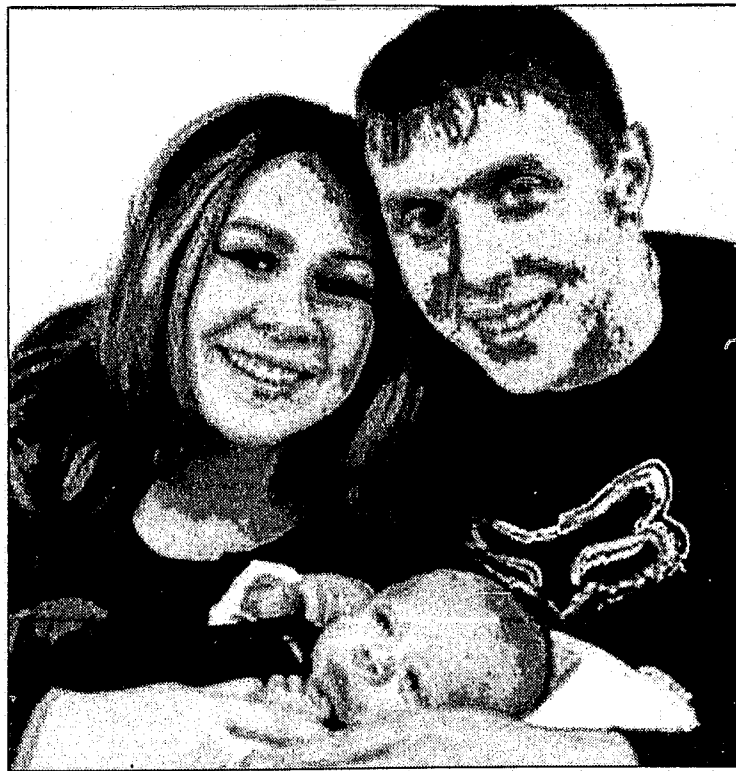

Teens may register at their local public library and take a test over each book read while enrolled in the program to earn points for rewards. Fifteen Accelerated Reader points will earn a pizza coupon. Thirty points qualify for a bungee watch, forty-five points are rewarded with a Flagship gift certificate and sixty points will earn a gift certificate to Books N Things in Norway. In addition, readers who have earned at least fifteen points by July 14 will qualify for a raffle of one copy of "Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows."

The drawing for the Harry Potter book will take place at a "Mystery Game Night" at the Paris Public Library on July 20 from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

The program will conclude with a celebration on Aug. 9. Beginning on June 15, interested teens may sign up at the participating libraries and borrow books to read for the program. Computerized quizzes will be available after June 22 at the participating libraries.

For more information, contact any of the participating libraries: Freeland Holmes Library (539-4016); Harrison Village Library (583-2970); Norway Memorial Library (743-5309); Paris Public Library (743-6994); Waterford Library (583-2050); and West Paris Library (674-2004). Sponsors of the program also include Friends of Maine Libraries, the Child Health Center and Oxford Hills Middle School.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

THE WISDOM OF HOMEOWNER WARRANTIES

There are a number of companies that offer home warranty coverage on the major systems and appliances in a home for the first year that the buyer owns the property. Arrangements are made for this coverage during the escrow period and usually paid for at close of escrow. These warranties vary in types of coverage and cost, but they can provide extra peace of mind for concerned buyers. Are homeowner warranties a good idea?

Buyers often start worrying about the condition of the home as soon as they sign the settlement papers. People use a house and appliances differently, and sometimes a change in style is enough to result in malfunction. A buyer may come back after the settlement insisting that a toilet or breaker box is defective and asking that it be repaired at the seller's expense. If you have purchased a warranty, the dispute is handled by the warranty company and is no longer between you and the buyer.

DONALD C. KLEIN, M.D.

Dr. Donald C. Klein, of Columbia, Md., passed away on Friday, June 8, 2007, in Pasadena, Calif., of heart failure. He was presenting at a community psychology conference sponsored by a division of the American Psychological Association. He had just told the story of one of his former doctoral students, the owner of a highly successful commercial furniture factory in Baltimore, who says that his success came from having profit as his business' bottom line, but (more importantly) having love as his top line. We take comfort knowing that Don was active up to the end of his 84 years, doing exactly what he loved to do.

Born in Worcester, Mass., on Aug. 10, 1923, Don was preceded in death in the year 2000 by

In Memory of Peter P. Howard, Sr.
3/25/51 - 6/20/97

When I was little, Dad would take me fishing on the lake.
Upon the bridge, we'd sit and talk,
The sun our heads would bake.

My fishing pole sits idle now,
in a closet in the hall,
But those talks will always be the most precious time of all.

For in his quiet way,
as we waited for a bite,
Dad told me all about his life and asked me about mine.

And I knew it wasn't fishing that brought us side by side,
Sitting through the afternoon waiting for a bite.

We miss and love you with all our hearts.

his wonderful wife, Lola Perl Klein, and his brother, David Klein, and is survived by their four sons, Stefan Klein of Big Bear, Calif., Jonathan Klein of San Francisco, Calif., Alan Klein of Columbia, Md., and Jeremy Klein of Louisa, Ky., as well as his eight grandchildren.

Don was a Graduate College core faculty member at the Union Institute and University, serving from 1977 through 2005, when he was named Faculty Emeritus. He was a longtime member of the NTL Institute for Applied Behavioral Sciences, and he and his family spent time in Bethel during almost every summer from 1954 to the 2005 NTL-Fest. More recently, he was a founding Board member of The Lewin Center for social justice research housed at the Gehring House in Bethel, as well as a member of the Board of Directors of the Center for Human Dignity and Humiliation Studies. He was most recently dedicated to the study of human dignity and the elimination of humiliation as a tool in human interaction and wrote and spoke eloquently on the topic.

For more than 50 years he consulted with executives and professional leaders of business, government, religious, educational, health, and human service organizations and with citizens involved in local community development programs in the United States and other countries. His work focused on increasing organizational effectiveness; mentoring and management development; program development in community mental health; individual, organizational, and community empowerment; and dealing with interpersonal, inter-divisional, and inter-organizational differences.

Don was associate editor of The Journal of Primary Prevention and recipient of the Distinguished Practice Award from the Division of Community Psychology of the American Psychological Association. He was the author of numerous books, journal articles, and chapters and served a number of distinguished institutions, including Johns Hopkins University, the University of Maryland, Boston University, Harvard University, and the American University.

Don's passion for appreciating life and those he encountered along the way are but two of his lasting contributions to the world. Please join his family in redoubling your efforts to make sure that the world thrives and shines by ensuring that you pay attention to your bottom line and, even more important, to your top line as well. May we all hit the threshold of our 84th birthday living life as fully and vigorously as he did and with his curiosity and thirst to learn.

JOSEPH MAWHINNEY
Joseph Wayne Mawhinney, 46, of Virgin Street in Rumford, heroically passed away on June 16, 2007 while saving his son, Erik Joseph, in a tragic accident, while working at the site of their new home in Rumford.

He was born in Rumford on June 7, 1961, a son of Rayfield L. and Clarice Murphy Mawhinney. Joe was educated in Mexico schools and was a graduate of Mexico High School, where he met his future wife and soul mate, Debra Bokowsky. They were married on May 30, 1981, and together they had two children, Angela and Erik.

Deb recalls all of the wonderful times they shared together and how devoted they were to each other. He was a supervisor for the S.W.B. Construction Co. in Jay for more than 20 years.

He enjoyed spending time with his family and cherished the wonderful times he had with his grandchildren. He also loved riding his Harley, snowmobiling races with his son, Erik, and attending NASCAR races. One of his favorite pastimes was working on their new home on Route 108.

He is survived by his loving wife, Debra Mawhinney of Rumford; his father, Rayfield L. Mawhinney and wife Shirley of Rumford; his mother, Clarice Crites and husband Richard of Las Vegas, Nev.; a daughter, Angela Marie (Mawhinney) Woods and husband Craig of Dixfield; a son, Erik Joseph Mawhinney and companion Leeann Gross of Mexico; mother-in-law, Patricia Lambert of Norway; three sisters, Jani Arsenault and husband Albert of Jay, Patty Coolidge and husband Gary of Turner and Jamie Plante and husband Tom of Mexico; two brothers, Bill Baltrus and companion Tina of Norridgewock and Doug Mawhinney of Mexico; sisters-in-law, Brenda Gross, and husband Coby of Saco and Cynthia Pelletier and husband Michael of Bethel; and three grandchildren. He was predeceased by his loving grandmother, Priscilla Mawhinney; and maternal grandparents, Edie and Pat Murphy.

Visiting hours will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. on Friday, June 22, at S.G. Thibault Funeral Home, 250 Penobscot Street, Rumford. A funeral service will be held at the funeral home at 11 a.m. on Saturday, June 23, with the Rev. Robert Peters officiating. Interment will be in Farington-Morton Cemetery. If so desired, contributions in Joe's memory may be made to the Joseph Mawhinney Scholarship Fund (for grandchildren), c/o Oxford Federal Credit Union, 225 River Road, P.O. Box 252, Mexico, ME 04257. Relatives and friends may pay tribute to Joe at www.mem.com.
